DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the "Field of the Invention" section on page 2 should not be a U.S. class/subclass, which may change as the claims are amended and/or the U.S. classification system itself is updated and redefined; this section probably should be deleted since a section with a similar heading and in the correct format already appears on page 1. Also, the "Description of Related Art" section on page 2 contains no information and probably should be deleted since it also seems to be a duplicate heading. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 2, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bass et al (US # 6,649,849). Bass et al discloses the claimed postal scale including a controller (52) which is connected to a weighing platform (Col. 3, lines 29-45) and which can send and receive information via the Internet (Col. 4, lines 12-45).

4. Claims 1, 2, 5, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Vaghi (US # 6,249,778). Vaghi discloses the claimed postal scale including a controller (Col. 3, lines 44-52) which is connected to a weighing platform (Col. 2, lines 56-68) and which can send and receive information via the Internet (Col. 3, lines 53-67). Although not specifically mentioned by Vaghi, dynamic HTML updates of display information in the Internet browser of a PC was known in December of 1998 and would have been recognized by the ordinary practitioner as being inherently present in any web browser that would have been inherently packaged with the WindowsTM operating system disclosed (claim 5 does not specify that the browser be directly associated with the weighing function).

5. Claims 1, 2, 6, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kara (US # 5,983,209). Kara discloses the claimed postal scale including a controller (10) which is connected to a weighing platform (Col. 5, lines 28-42; Col. 6, line 62 to col. 7, line 2) and which can send and receive information via the Internet (Col. 5, lines 3-22). Kara does not specifically mention the use of e-mail, but since Kara is intended to send and receive information via the Internet, specifically copies of invoices or statements sent to a customer, and since e-mail was a commonly used method of communicating via the Internet in October of 1996, the use of e-mail must necessarily been present in the device of Kara.

6. Claims 1, 3, 4, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gesuita et al (US # 6,566,613). Gesuita et al discloses remotely controlling a weighing/packing machine via the Internet (Col. 4, lines 8-23).

Conclusion

7. Claim 7 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claims 9-12 are allowable over the art of record.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Barni et al (US # 6,064,981) discloses an Internet web site which allows one to enter shipping data to bid on shipping services. The published application of Bliss et al discloses a scale which automatically e-mails information via the Internet (paragraph 0025). The published application of Miller et al discloses a device similar to the applicant's claims.
